

Dr. Carlos Loucera obtained a degree in Mathematics at the University of the Basque Country in 2008, and a Master's and Ph.D. in Mathematics and Computation at the University of Cantabria in 2012 and 2017, respectively. He has worked as a data scientist at the Statistics Institute of Cantabria and the National State Agency of Meteorology (AEMET), as well as a research scientist in several industrial projects. Nowadays he works as a PostDoc Researcher in Machine Learning for Personalized Medicine at the Bioinformatics Area (Fundación Progreso y Salud) in interpretable machine learning applied to cancer, COVID-19, and rare diseases.